INVESTMENT STRATEGY

The Fund will follow an active investment strategy that aims to blend fundamental and behavioural perspectives through the use of multiple forward and backward-looking factors embedded in a proprietary developed Multi-Factor Quant model. The investment belief supports that underlying fundamental strength at the security level is the driver of long-term returns. Hence, the Bottom-up approach has been considered as a key driver to achieve relatively better risk adjusted returns.

A stock must have appropriate market capitalization, meet a minimum liquidity threshold, and have a sufficient history of reliable financial data in order to be included in the investable universe for the portfolio. The stock selection process is dynamic, in an attempt to ensure that investment decisions are based on current information.

The Factor library utilised in the model used by the Fund has been well researched, broad and deep and has a sound economic rationale for its contribution which allows to build a comprehensive view around the relative attractiveness of each stock in the universe. The Quant model uses four primary factors: Quality, Value, Sentiment, and Alternatives. Each factor encompasses a wide range of sub-factors/metrics, some of which are proprietary and derived from rigorous research. These factors help in decision-making through multiple dimensions:

- Quality-Oriented Factor
 - o Profitability: Assessing the company's profitability.
 - o Balance Sheet: Evaluating the strength of the balance sheet from a debt quality perspective.
 - o Efficiency: Measuring the company's efficiency in asset utilization.
 - o Innovation: Analyzing the company's investment in innovation.
- Value-Oriented Factors:
 - o Value: Determining if the stock is undervalued relative to peers.
 - o Cash Flow: Assessing the availability of cash for dividends or reinvestment.
- Sentiment-Oriented Factor
 - o Earnings Growth: Reviewing the history and potential for earnings growth.
 - o Expectations: Monitoring analyst upgrades or downgrades and earnings surprises.
 - o Behavioral: Evaluating price momentum and trend reversals.
- Alternative Factors:
 - o Short Interest: Analyzing the increase in shorting interest in the company's futures.

The sub factors provide Fundamental, Technical and Behavioural perspectives. Some of the sub factors considered in the strategy besides the ones mentioned above are [this is not an exhaustive factor list, and the fund manager may add or delete any factor(s)]:

- Return on Assets
- Capex Coverage
- Enterprise Multiples
- Shareholder Yield, and
- Earning Momentum, etc

Many other criteria are also involved in running the model and decision making. Stock specific characteristics such as sector, Market Capitalization, style and others are considered as we seek to have minimal exposures to these types of attributes. This allows us to develop a more robust Alpha model taking into account multiple factor and style perspectives.

The strategy also seeks to apply a negative screen for companies with poor quality based on our proprietary quality factor scores, high risk based on price volatility and poor corporate governance score.

The stock selection is done through a systematic and disciplined optimized process using quantitative models, data analysis, risk-models, and algorithms. This approach aims to reduce human biases, offer diversification, capture market inefficiencies and manage risk. As part of the process, risk management is embedded in the portfolio construction process and monitored and managed on a continual basis. The strategy also leverages the power of data, technology, and analytics to uncover the true value and potential of the stocks in the universe, while avoiding the pitfalls of human judgment and emotions. The strategy focuses to balance both return generation as well as risk management.

As part of our quantitative investment process, risk management is embedded in the portfolio construction process and monitored and managed on a continual basis. Risk is considered before and during the construction of the portfolio, rather than simply measured afterward.

Derivatives:

Derivative products are leveraged instruments and can provide disproportionate gains as well as disproportionate losses to the investor. Execution of such strategies depends upon the ability of the fund manager to identify such opportunities. Identification and execution of the strategies to be pursued by the fund manager involve uncertainty and decision of fund manager may not always be profitable. No assurance can be given that the fund manager will be able to identify or execute such strategies. The risks associated with the use of derivatives are different from or possibly greater than, the risks associated with investing directly in securities and other traditional investments. For detailed derivative strategies, please refer to SAI.

For detailed scheme specific risk factors, please refer Scheme Information Document.

RISK PROFILE OF THE SCHEME

Mutual Fund Units involve investment risks including the possible loss of principal. Please read the SID carefully for details on risk factors before investment. Scheme specific Risk Factors are summarized below:

- Different types of securities in which the scheme would invest carry different levels and types of risks. Accordingly the scheme's risk may increase or decrease depending upon its investment pattern.
- Trading volumes, settlement periods and transfer procedures may restrict liquidity of investments in equity and equity related securities.
- The performance of the scheme may be affected by the corporate performance, macro-economic factors, changes in Government policies, general levels of interest rates and risk associated with trading volumes, liquidity and settlement systems in the securities markets.

- Transactions conducted through the stock exchange mechanism shall be governed by the operating guidelines and directives issued by respective recognized stock exchange(s).

Risk associated with Equity & Equity related investments

- Market Risk: Investing in equity and related securities carries inherent market risks, where liquidity can be affected by trading volumes and market conditions. Additionally, securities not listed on exchanges are more illiquid and may present higher risks.
- Liquidity Risk: Trading volumes, settlement periods and transfer procedures may restrict liquidity of investments in equity and equity related securities. Securities listed on exchanges generally exhibit lower liquidity risks compared to unlisted ones, which may be challenging to sell during unfavourable market conditions.
- Mid & Small Cap Stocks: Investing in mid and small-cap stocks can offer higher capital appreciation opportunities but also comes with greater volatility and risks compared to larger, established companies. Factors contributing to this volatility include uncertain growth prospects and lower liquidity.
- Historical Trends and Performance: The performance of equity investments may be influenced by historical trends and statistical data. However, there is no assurance that these trends will continue, and changes in market conditions can affect the performance of the schemes.
- Liquidity in Abnormal Circumstances: In abnormal market conditions, it may be difficult to complete transactions due to poor liquidity in stock futures or the spot market. The fund will aim to take exposure into relatively liquid stocks to minimize the risk of such transactions

Risk associated with a Multi-factor based quantitative thematic fund:

- Risk of investing in specific theme: Investing in a thematic fund is based on the premise that the Scheme will seek to invest in companies belonging to only specific theme. Thus, investing in a thematic fund could involve potentially greater volatility and risk.
- Proprietary quantitative model: The Scheme would be investing in Equity & Equity related instruments based on quant-based investment theme based on an in-house proprietary quantitative model. This in-house model will have various qualitative and quantitative factors basis which the investments would be done. However, the model may not be able to capture the short-term market opportunities from time to time due to the underlying factors used. The model is based on historical data and assumptions which may not hold true in future and can lead to losses.
- Performance Variability in Factor Investing: There is no guarantee that the factor model will generate higher returns as compared to the benchmark. Factor investing may go through cycles of underperformance and overperformance, and there may be periods when a factor-focused portfolio will not achieve its objectives.
- Unintended Concentrations: Factor portfolios can become heavily concentrated in certain sectors, increasing exposure to sector-specific risk
- Crowded Trades and Overused Signals: Popular factor strategies can lead to crowded trades, increasing the risk of sharp drawdowns during market stress, as many investors try to exit simultaneously.
- Data Mining and Overfitting: Some factors may have been identified through back testing and may not perform as expected in real markets, leading to model risk
- Non-Constant Correlations: Correlations between factors can change over time, reducing diversification benefits and potentially leading to simultaneous losses across multiple factors
- Risk of Factor Premium Commoditization: Factor premiums may diminish over time due to widespread adoption and arbitrage, reducing expected excess returns.
- Fund Manager Discretion: The Fund Manager may deviate from the model, due to market environment, liquidity considerations, flows, trading cost benefit analysis and any new information on any specific.
- Higher Turnover: This fund being thematic fund based on quantitative model, the turnover could be higher than other diversified equity fund. Frequent rebalancing or trading to maintain factor exposures can incur higher transaction costs.
- Market impact and Liquidity Risk: Model based investment at times may impact the market prices leading to higher costs.

Risk associated with Debt and Money Market Instruments

- Investments in debt instruments are subject to various risks such as credit/default risk, interest rate risk, reinvestment risk, liquidity risk etc.
- Credit risk: This refers to the risk that an issuer of a fixed income security may default (i.e. will be unable to make timely principal and interest payments on the security).
- Interest rate risk: This risk results from changes in demand and supply for money and other macroeconomic factors and creates price changes in the value of debt instruments.

Consequently, the NAV of the scheme may be subject to fluctuation. Prices of long term securities generally fluctuate more in response to interest rate changes than do short-term securities. This may expose the schemes to possible capital erosion.

- Liquidity Risk: This refers to the ease with which a security can be sold at or near to its valuation yield-to-maturity (YTM). Liquidity risk is today characteristic of the Indian fixed income market.
- Market risk: This risk arises due to price volatility due to such factors as interest sensitivity, market perception or the credit worthiness of the issuer and general market liquidity, change in interest rate expectations and liquidity flows. Market risk is a risk which is inherent to investments in securities. This may expose the schemes to possible capital erosion.
- Reinvestment risk: This risk refers to the interest rate levels at which cash flows received for the securities in the Scheme is reinvested. The risk is that the rate at which interim cash flows can be reinvested may be lower than that originally assumed.
- Mutual funds are member of securities segment and Triparty Repo trade settlement of CCIL. Thus, the scheme is subject to risk of the initial margin and default fund contribution being invoked in the event of failure of any settlement obligations.

The market for repo transactions in corporate bonds is over the counter (OTC) and illiquid. Hence, repo obligations cannot be easily sold to other parties.

Risk associated with Derivatives

- Derivatives are high risk, high return instruments. A small price movement in the underlying security could have a large impact on their value and may also result in a loss.
- The success of derivative strategies depends on the fund manager's ability to identify and execute opportunities. There is no assurance that the fund manager will always be profitable
- Using derivatives for hedging introduces risks such as mispricing, execution risk, and basis risk. Imperfect hedging can result in mismatches between the underlying assets and derivatives, impacting overall portfolio risk. The Scheme may face difficulties in executing derivative transactions due to insufficient bids, suspension of trading, or other market conditions

Risk associated with REITs and InvITs

- Market Risk: REITs and InvITs are volatile and prone to daily price fluctuations due to market movements. The NAV of the Scheme is vulnerable to various market-related factors.
- Liquidity Risk: The liquidity of investments may be restricted by trading volumes and settlement periods, leading to high time for liquidating investments in case of immediate redemption requirement.
- Reinvestment Risk: Investments in REITs & InvITs may carry reinvestment risk due to repatriation of funds by the Trusts, which may get invested in assets providing lower returns.
- Interest Rate Risk: Securities/ Instruments of REITs and InvITs run interest rate risk. Generally, when interest rates rise, prices of units fall and when interest rates drop, such prices increase.
- General Risks: There can be no assurance that a Scheme's investment objectives will be achieved, or that there will be no loss of capital. Investment results may vary substantially on a monthly, quarterly, or annual basis

Risk associated with other asset classes:

- Overseas Investments: Investing in foreign assets involves currency and country risks, including potential losses due to unfavourable currency movements and political instability. The repatriation of capital may also face regulatory challenges.
- Security Lending: Engaging in securities lending is subject to risks related to fluctuations in collateral value and settlement/liquidity and counter party risks.

There is no assurance or guarantee that the objectives of the scheme will be achieved. The past performance of the mutual funds managed by the Franklin Templeton Group and its affiliates is not necessarily indicative of future performance of the scheme.
